Crossings will take nine and a half days in each direction and will touch at London, Antwerp, and Hamburg.

An appeal to the press to mold public opinion in support of larger grants for medical research, particularly into the cause and control of cancer, was voiced by L-Governor Bruce of Ontario at the Royal York Hotel recently at the banquet which wound up the seventh annual convention of the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association, Ontario-Quebec Division.

Skiing and bear-hunting were combined at the Lake Camp, Metagama, recently, when two women skiers of Toronto, accompanied by a photographer, routed a bear out of his den and stood near while the animal was "shot" by a movie camera.

The Orient with its mystery and its allure, its brilliant colors and picturesque scenes, will form the inspiration for the Beaux Arts Ball, biggest event of the spring season, to be held the week after Easter at the Canadian Pacific Royal York Hotel, Toronto. The historic theme for the ball is the great festival at Samarra held in 1641 to celebrate the Emperor Omar's conquest of India.

Musical and literary England, and the England of the great cathedrals will be the theme of a party under the leadership of Dr. Alfred Whitehead, organist of Christ Church Cathedral, Montreal. Hierarchy of the future which will take about a month has been arranged by Gay Form Ltd. in conjunction with the Canadian Pacific Steamships.

A Welcome Declaration of War

The people of Canada, under the leadership of Their Excellencies the Governor-General and Lady Beasbrough, supported by the Dominion and Provincial Governments, all political parties, the churches, the press, the medical profession, organizations of men and women, and women of goodwill throughout the length and breadth of the Dominion, have decided to commemorate the birthday anniversary of the accession of King George V. to the throne of the world's greatest empire on May 6 by a declaration of war.

Canadians are a peace loving people; they abhor war, and their whole history proves that they never engage in war except when absolutely forced to it in self-defence, but, once in, they fight to the finish with all the strength, energy and resources they can command. Fighting in their own defence they never remain on the defensive but adopt vigorous offensive tactics to bring about the defeat of the common enemy and safeguard their own existence. History proves this to be true.

So, with the lives of thousands of their people at stake, all Canada has decided to make the Silver Jubilee of His Majesty, who has been well described as a kingly man and a many king, by a declaration of war upon a common world enemy, cancer. The annihilation required to prosecute this war is—money. Money is necessary in the conduct of all wars, and in 1914-1919 Canada supplied it in the hundreds of millions, yes, billions. In this new and humanitarian war a substantial war chest is essential to success, although not in the enormous sums referred to above. Every Canadian family is asked to contribute to the extent of their ability.

Mankind is forced to wage a continuing war against disease, and looking back over past years it is gratifying to know that, taken as a whole, it has been a successful war. A few years ago the great scourge was tuberculosis, the White Man's Plague, which topped the list of diseases afflicting the race. To-day it is in retreat, now far down in the list, with a steadily diminishing number of victims.

Yellow fever, which once conquered its victims by the thousands, is unknown; smallpox has been eradicated; diphtheria, which carried off children by the thousands, has been conquered through the discovery and use of anti-diphtheria serum; cholera, typhus, and other plagues are now practically unknown, with the result that the expectation of life as born more than doubled, rarely trebled, within the past 100 years.

On the other hand, the ravages of cancer continue to increase until to-day it is responsible for more deaths than any other disease with the single exception of diseases of the heart. Cancer comes second on the list and in 1932 was responsible for 10,646 deaths in Canada as compared with 7,614 only seven years previously in 1926, and the toll is progressively rising higher each year, having increased from 93.9 per 100,000 in 1931-32 to 100 per 100,000 in 1933.

This is the common enemy that now calls Canada to arms and has resulted in this Silver Jubilee declaration of war. Contrary to a view widely held, cancer is not an incurable disease. It can be cured if it is discovered and treatment commenced in its early stages. Early diagnosis is the all-important factor. But to secure early diagnosis involves, first, education of the public, the provision of a largely increased number of qualified diagnosticians, and facilities for treatment throughout the whole country. These are the essential munitions in this war, and they cost money.

The people of Canada, the rich, the merely well-to-do, even the poor, are called upon to enlist in the army of attack on this dread enemy which is now on the offensive against the people and against a victory over us. As a Canadian people we must now take the offensive, take it today and in a large way, and fight it to the bitter end.

The idea of the "King George V. Silver Jubilee Cancer Fund for Canada" is an admirable one. It will be administered by trustees and every dollar will be spent in Canada, in the saving of Canadian lives. To establish that each Canadian family and household is asked to contribute one dollar, or as many more dollars as they can. Contributions may be sent to Lady Beasbrough, Government House, Ottawa, who will acknowledge every donation received, large or small, on a card bearing the portraits of the King and Queen.

This does Canada propose to commemorate the Silver Jubilee of His Majesty by the creation of a permanent national anti-cancer fund. It will be an expression of the loyalty and affection of the Canadian people to His Majesty and at the same time a tangible, lasting and humanitarian record of a great national event.

We are glad to add the support of this column to the nation-wide appeal now being made in support of this effort to commemorate a reign that is one of the finest in British history in a manner which has received the gracious approval of His Majesty and as something designed to be of lasting value to suffering humanity.

The Right of Way

According to the new traffic regulations in England the pedestrian has the right of way and motorists are not entitled to make anybody "pull back" at a crossing, the Marylebone magistrate, Ivan Snell, stated in fining a motorist $2.50.

No Indication Of Quality

Canada peas have the size of the can stated on the label of the can. No. 1 is a very small pea; No. 2 is larger; No. 3 still larger, and so on. The size of peas is no way dependent on the quality nor the quality on the size.

Building Traffic Subways

Paris Found First One To Be Huge Success

Because of the success of the first traffic subway, Paris is pushing the construction of additional ones. These passages are designed to insure the continuity of the circular road built in place of the former fortifications surrounding Paris. This road, complete, will be nearly 30 miles long, 133 feet wide, and will permit the passage of six rows of cars. Sidewalks on each side of the road are over three feet wide. Where this circular route meets the main arteries leading out of Paris it has been attempted, wherever possible, to direct traffic around a central plateau which serves as an axis. This eliminates to a certain extent the danger resulting from the crossing of cars from various directions and helps to reduce traffic tie-ups.

Arcades For London Streets

Expert Predicts City's Shopping Centres Will Be Covered

Women will soon be able to do all their window-gazing under cover in London, according to a merchandising expert, who says that the shopping centres will be a series of arcades. Mannequins will come from the shelter of the stores, where they already are continuously on display, and appear in windows in place of the present wax figures, which have gone from the realistic to the fantastic and back again.

WAS CONSTIPATED FOR 30 YEARS

Woman's Long Search For a Remedy

The trouble with most remedies for constipation, as this woman found, is that they give only temporary relief. Having at last found a permanent corrective, she writes to tell us

"For upwards of 30 years I was a victim of acute constipation. I tried practically everything that was possible to try. I admit I was a chronic case, and every now and then I tried for a day or two—after that I was just as bad as ever. This month ago I took my first taste of Kruschen Salt, and every morning since, every morning so long as I live, my first duty upon rising is to take a pinch of Kruschen Salt. My bowels act like clockwork. My bowels act to the clock, and my friends remark how well I am looking. My only regret is that I don't try Kruschen years ago."

(A. A.) A. A. Kruschen Salt is Nature's recipe for maintaining a condition of inner cleanliness. The six salts in Kruschen stimulate your internal organs to smooth, regular action. Your system is thus kept clear of those impurities which, allowed to accumulate, lower the whole tone of the system.

English Town Thrifty

The changing times have not changed the Yorkshireman's thrift. When the people of East Winton in Yorkshire met to arrange for their jubilee celebrations they found the village still had a balance left over from the coronation of their Majesty 25 years ago. So the Winton will use it to celebrate their jubilee.

TO END PAIN

Minard's Liniment is a powerful remedy for all kinds of pain, including rheumatism, neuralgia, and all other forms of chronic and acute pain.

Object To Uniform

Typists of Turkey are angry over the threatened rule of the Turkish government that they must wear a standardized uniform. A bill introduced in the Angora parliament declares that the girls have dressed too frivolously, and they should wear a dark and simple costume. The typists declare such a rule would prevent them from developing their individuality.

Best She Could Do

A rather stout woman was making herself a nuisance in his shop which was holding its annual sale. Nothing, it seemed, would suit her, and the unfortunate shop-assistant was beginning to get a little weary. "Haven't you anything ready-made that will fit me?" asked the customer at last. "Yes; the umbrellas and the handkerchiefs are downstairs, madam," the girl replied.

"Growing" A Sea Wall

Rice Grass Effective In Preventing Flooding Of Land

The cultivation of rice grass on the low-lying lands of Essex and other similar mud flats in England may result in turning thousands of acres of waste land into profitable pasture. Spartina grass became known in Great Britain about 100 years ago through a few seedlings accidentally from some cargo ships at Southampton Docks. They took root and formed a hybrid with British grass which attracted the attention of agricultural scientists who saw the porosity of "growing" their sea wall instead of spending thousands of pounds on sea defence to prevent the land being flooded. Experiments have proved that such a wall is not worn away by the tide, and now Holland and Australia are planting rice grass with a view to converting large tracts of marshes into pastures.

Bonus Paid On Coal

Canada Has Paid Out Over Six Millions Dollars Since 1929

Since 1929 Canada has paid $6,781,176 in subventions and other forms of assistance to aid the coal industry in the Maritime provinces and Alberta, a return tabled in the House of Commons said. Of that amount $4,657,992 went to the Maritimes and $1,923,088 to Alberta. Payments made generally by the trade and commerce department to assist in placing Canadian coal used in the manufacture of iron or steel on a basis of equality with imported coal amounted to $465,273, while "additional payments" made under the Domestic Fuel Act to the Maritime coal industry totaled $87,503.

From 1931 to the present the amount of bonus paid on wheat is $11,706,576. The outlay in the year 1931-32 when the five-cents-a-bushel bonus was in effect was $10,908,428.

Correspondence Of Kings

Findings In Palestine Date Back To 700 B.C.

The correspondence between two kings dating back to the time of Jeremiah, 700 B.C., has been discovered by the archaeological expedition led by Prof. J. L. Starkey, of Great Britain. It was learned. The discovery was made at Tel Ad-Dunweir, ancient city of Lachish. It consists of 12 Ostraca fragments which are taken to be an exchange of secret letters between the kingdom of Judah and the kingdom of Babylon or Egypt.

Details of the findings were made known to the Palestine government, but were not given out to the press.

Schoolmaster In England Has Collection Of Unusual Horseshoes

A schoolmaster at Wimbledon is an ardent collector of horseshoes. But not ordinary horseshoes. He specializes in ancient horseshoes. The walls of one of his rooms are covered with scores of them. They even overflow to other rooms. One of his horseshoes was discovered on the site of a Roman camp. In all probability it was cast from the foot of a charger ridden by a Roman general.

School Named After Prince

The Prince of Wales has consented to his name being given to a school for underprivileged girls established in British Columbia along lines identical with similar schools set up in Australia for some years past. The institution in British Columbia will be known as the "Prince of Wales Fairbridge Farm School."

Montreal Institute Own Of Leading Cancer Cure Hospitals

The Radium Institute of Montreal became one of the leading cancer treatment hospitals in the world with the installation of apparatus generating 500,000 volts. The institute hopes to raise the voltage mark to 1,200,000 in a short while. Dr. J. E. Gendreau, director, announced.

"Ultra penetrating X-rays at a voltage of 500,000 were put in operation only after extremely careful physical measurements preparatory to cancer treatments, and the apparatus has been used for the first time on patients," Dr. Gendreau said.

"This apparatus is the largest and most powerful in Canada and is surpassed by but a few in the United States or Europe," he said. He stressed the necessity of adequate facilities in different countries to fight cancer with great success.

THE TENDERFOOT

By GEORGE B. RODNEY

Author of "The Coronado Trail," "The Canyon Trail," etc.

SYNOPSIS

"You've fallen into a half-share to plenty of trouble," the lawyer told Gerald Keene. "The Broken Spur has been systematically looting the ranch, and old Joe Carr, your partner, is drinking himself into a pool of water."

Dad Kane, desert rat and luckless prospector till now returns to tell Dustin and Spike Gooddard, who had grubstaked him, of his discovery of a rich gold mine, and shows samples of the ore.

Dustin unexpectedly comes along while Stone and Edith are riding fence, and seeing them, stops and talks to Edith. He mentions their dispute could be settled by marrying him, and Edith refuses his proposal with remarks that make Dustin frown. He insults Stone, who promptly throws him into a pool of water.

Dustin learns that Gerald Keene has been sent for, and also that Duro Stone has seen the Broken Spur rustling Carr's cattle. He sets out with Dad Kane to learn the location of his gold discovery. Dad Kane shows Dustin the mine.

They go back to camp, and Dustin shoots Kane. He fires the shooting on Gerald Keene, a drink addict, who, stupefied by the narcotic he had taken, did not know whether he was guilty or not. They bury Kane, and then return to the Broken Spur ranch.

Meanwhile at the Broken Spur, Crewe and Stone speculate as to the meaning of entries in the notebook belonging to Dad Kane that Stone had found. Stone thinks of a possible rotation, and, accompanied by Edith Carr, rides out to Red Water to test out his theory, which proves correct and they find the rich gold deposit mentioned in the properties' title book. As they return to the ranch, they find Dustin leaving the mine, and, purposely, but successfully tries to ride down Stone.

Sam Dustin, the day before Gerald Keene's arrival in Seco, cunningly persuades Pezotti Greck Keene or Kane was a relative of the old prospector, and was seeking information as to the old man's whereabouts. If Pezotti wanted to live, he should keep his mouth shut about the murder. Greck should shoot Keene when he arrives.

(Now On With The Story)

Already alerted by the drinks he had had at the dinner and by the arrival of his young partner, Carr was ablaze. His face was flushed and his voice cheery as he headed for the bar. Behind him Frank Crewe kept close. He hated nights like this and he waited only the first chance to get out of Joe Carr to the Hourglass.

At word came to him, he said: "Oh, shut up, Frank. I've not been in town for a year. Stone... I'm not here to see Stone... I'm here to see Keene and the boys for a time. You've come just in time. Keene. We'll go into closed session tomorrow and show the Broken Spur a thing or two... Come up, Keene, and take your liquor..."

Pezotti eyes focused on the slender figure that stood behind Joe's side. So that was the man who wanted to hang him! His eyes lit rusty! He licked his lips with a dry tongue and stared across the room. The door slapped open and Sam Dustin slouched to the bar. If his quick glance told in that brief moment, he saw the dark figure of Pezotti hidden in the shadows, no one knew it.

"I reckon we can do better at the hotel, Mr. Carr." Pezotti saw the newly arrived Gerald Keene touch the old ranchman's arm and he caught the sharp reply.

"Better'n what? This liquor's good enough. I'm tired of talkin'. Some like I've been talkin' all my life. You're all right, son. Any nephew of old Peter Vinton's bound to be all right. Not like those lousy Broken Spur heels! They've been lootin' hair 'n' hide of the Hourglass for five years now an'..."

He swept on in a mad speech. There were Broken Spur men in that crowd and at a motion from Dustin they swept aside into a group, darkened and angry, ready to start a fight at a moment's notice. Pezotti sensed the tenacious. Suddenly Carr swung away from the bar and with Gerald Keene at his elbow headed for the roulette table.

"G! me a stack of chips... Not white... Blues an' reds... Now watch! I'm playing Cripple Creek... One, three five, seven an' eleven..."

Twice he repeated his plays and each time the reluctant cabbie thrust his winnings across the table. Suddenly the big electric light over the table flickered and died and a voice shrieked out:

"Somebody's changin' his luck. A nigger passed the power-house. Keep your hands on your winners, you wally-eyed fools..."

The big light blinked once and went out again in a blackness that tasted of smoke and dirt and sweat.

"Somebody see what the hell ails that wire. Look to the fuse-box!" Pezotti heard the front door slam. This was the one moment that might never come again. It was the opportunity he had hoped for!

He wriggle like an eel inside that door and headed straight for the roulette table where he had seen Gerald Keene standing by the elbow of old Joe Carr. He knew that room as a horse knows his own stall and at that moment a man cannot miss even with a two-and-a-half-inch derringer. The darkness hung like a curtain.

Men panted about the door waiting for light but before that light could come there was a short, barking report, a curious metallic smack like a fire-cracker exploding in a can, but there were no sparks to break the darkness. Then suddenly the room was flooded with white light that blinded every eye and men blinked at each other dazed and staring.

"God! Look there... A man shoot out in terror. Gerald Keene lay across the roulette table with blood running over the green cloth and his fingers convulsively clutching at the wheel.

"Shut the door!" shouted a voice from the rear. "A man's been shot..."

That was no new thing in the Silver Dollar but the doors shut as if by magic. Stone thrust the milling crowd aside and was in turn forced back by Crewe.

"Let me have him..." Stone laid the limp figure on the table. "For God's sake make some one get a doctor. The man's been shot..."

"Who is he? Where'd he come from? Who is he? A dozen voices asked the questions and though the answers could make any difference.

"It's Gerald Keene, half-owner of the Hourglass," said Crewe. "He only got to town this evening..."

"Keep that door shut till the Sheriff gets here," said a sharp voice. "This is a matter for the law..."

"He's got to town this evening," said Dustin, his face as cold as half-frost and his face was red. Anger was plain. Crewe took one look at him, but Joe Carr was first.

"By God," he said. "It's a new card to find Broken Spur men on the side of law an' decency. But the man's right..."

"Hold everybody..." Big Jim Garvey, the Sheriff barged into the room, slammed the heavy front door and looked it. "This calls for a show-down. I said. 'Who fired that shot?'"

No one answered him. The light flickered up through the lamp and the bartender hammered at the door. He had heard the shot and the Doctor Pezotti, the "vet," the only doctor Seco boasted who would be sober at that hour, Garvey opened the door and Pezotti, the doctor, pitched into the room. Logan, the bartender thrust him toward the roulette table where the wounded man lay with his head on Stone's arm.

"How bad's he hurt, Doc?" Logan retrieved from the bar his only special for the night, a bottle of whiskey and held it to the victim's lips while Epps made a hasty examination.

"That above the liver," he said finally. "Looks mighty bad to me." "Good God! You'd think he'd die!" demanded Crewe.

"Hush! We'll all die. Some'll go before the rest. That's all I can promise right now. Logan, let me have that bottle..."

He was poking and prying in the clothing of the wounded man. "Here's what hurt him. The bullet went clear through him... and he held up to their gaze a stubby, soft-lead bullet. "It's"

"I spoiled the lot because I didn't see Keen's!"

"I tried that recipe you gave me for Mustard Pickles. Mary, but it didn't turn out at all like yours."

"That's too bad, Jane. I've always had such wonderful results with Keen's Mustard!"

"Oh, I didn't use Keen's!"

"Here's your trouble, Jane, right there. Keen's Mustard has the strength flavor and 'nip' that is not found in any other."

Guide and Brownie Notes

All Ranger, Guides, Brownies
and leaders are preparing to attend the rally in Calgary on April 22 to greet the Chief Scout and Chief Guide on their mission of peace around the world. Thirty-six girls and leaders will attend from Ar-rowwood. They will go on the Special train from Gleichen and will represent the country of Belgium in the great Peace Exhibit at the arena. They will also take part in the "March Past" the Chief, where 6,000 Scouts and Guides will salute Lord Baden-Powell.

On Wednesday last, Captain Mrs. Weins had the pleasure of enrolling Mrs. Doten Mary Dumka, Margaret Richards, Mary Thompson and Olive Bala as Rangers. Mrs. Doten will be the future captain of Rangers.

Mary Dumka, Annie Dumka
Grace Burger, June Clifgard,
Betty Jean Vanell, Loretta
Weins, and Dorothy Heasketh were presented with second class badges, the first Ar-rowwood Guides to earn this so far. Patrol Leaders June Clifgard, Loretta Weins and Annie Dumka were given their P. L. stripes and lanyards. Their seconds, Betty Jean Vanell,
Dorothy Heasketh and Grace Burger were also awarded their second stripes and lanyards. All these girls had to qualify for the Second Class Badge before receiving these honors.

Mary Dumka was presented with the Swimmers and Life Savers Badges. The Guides are proud of Mary's badges. Wearing these means that their lives
are safeguarded near water, and her courage and willingness further protect them.

A Communist as Ever

A Communist dashed over to an old friend and comrade.
"Look, look," he cried excitedly, as he pointed to a newspaper. I won first prize in the Sweepstakes; $200,000! Do you hear—I've won $200,000!

The other Communist eyed
his friend coolly.

"What are you going to do with the money?" he enquired.

The lucky Communist thought the matter over for a moment.
"Well," he said finally, "first I'm going to move out of that tenement, and buy myself a mansion on Long Island. I'm going to get me plenty of servants. Then I'm going to get myself a big Packard, at the very least."

"After that, I'm going into my own banking business on Wall Street. I want to triple my money as soon as I can."

The second Communist tossed his friend a hostile stare.

"So," he cried bitterly. "You're forsaking the Communist party
eh?"

A hurt look crept into the first Communist's eyes.

"Don't be silly," he yodeled.

"I'll still be a Communist at heart!"—N.Y. Mirror.

Here and There

Employed on railway construction 20 years ago, Thomas D. Mc-Gillivray, 83, of Edmonton, claims the distinction of having placed the last carload of dirt on the C.P.R. when that trans-continental line was completed to the Pacific coast in 1885. Despite his advanced age he still has a clear recollection of incidents in construction.

Miss Mary McNeill, superan-nated in December after over thirty years on the Upper Lakes
as stewardess of the C.P.R. Great Lakes Steamships, spent almost her entire service as chief stewardess of S.S. Kewatin, sailing with her every season from her maiden voyage in 1903 until the close of the 1934 season.

Fortunes are being spent on research in the science of armaments but not one penny for research in the field of disarmament, said Prof. Julian Huxley, famous grandson of the even more famous Thomas H. Huxley.
In outlining the modern status and functions of science, its shortcomings and possibilities, at the Lord Nelson Hotel, Halifax, recently.

"Our province will soon take an important place, if not the leading place, among the gold-producing countries of the world," stated Hon. J. E. Perrault, Minister of Roads and Mines of the Province of Quebec, in a recent address on "The Mining Industry of Quebec," at the Chateau Pres-bytique, Quebec City.

Interviewed at Victoria recently, K. R. Donlin, assistant passenger traffic manager, Canadian Pacific Railway, stationed at Winnipeg, said that his indications pointed to a better all-around tourist season for 1935 over 1934
much improved though that year had been over previous tourist seasons.

Ski-joring behind a fast running horse; muzzling with a team of bantams; skating, or sliding on the mountain trails all come under the heading of real sport,
is the view of Miss Dorothy Standard who reigns as Banff Winter Sports Beauty Queen during this year's season in the Canadian Rockies.

Harry Loder, tourist, travelling along a highway near Banff by car recently, saw a golden eagle fly by the window of his car, and reaching out caught it by the neck and pulled it into the car. He turned the bird over to the Banff Zoo.

A forty-mile ski race, a forty-mile snowshoe race, motorcycle ski-joring, figure skating, ladies and men's hockey, championship
speed skating, pony ski-joring, trap-shooting, ski-jumping and many swimming events in the elaborate winter carnival at Banff on the week's programme
beginning February 14.

Sailing recently on her fourth annual cruise around the world, which will take 120 days, with calls at thirty-three ports in twenty-four countries, Canadian Pacific Atlantic flagship, Empress of Britain, left New York with close on 400 passengers and crew return to New York late in May.

Center-Poise Riding in a

Passengers Located Close to Center of Car

Three major engineering principles combine to give to the new Ford V-8 for 1935 what Ford engineers term
the "center-poise" ride, according to Larsen Implements, local Ford dealers.

These principles are: Correct spring suspension, involving equality of front and rear spring flexibility.
Proper car weight balance and passenger weight distribution.

Location of passengers close to centre of the car.
Utilization of these in combination is provided by Ford engineers, achieves for the new Ford V-8 remarkable improvement in riding comfort without sacrifice of either safety or stability.
